FAQs – Frequently Asked Questions about the School-Based Telehealth Program

What is the School-Based Telehealth program?

Your child may have the opportunity to participate in a school-based telehealth visit. The program is used to bring healthcare to children in the school setting. A nurse practitioner or a doctor from MUSC, or the local community, examines your child with the assistance of the school nurse. Computers and monitors are used so that patients and providers can see each other, talk clearly, and share information. At times special equipment, like electronic stethoscopes and a camera to look inside a child's ears are used.

Who will be participating in the telehealth visit?

Individuals, such as the school nurse, will be present to operate the video equipment. They will take reasonable steps to maintain confidentiality of the information obtained.

How will information collected from the telehealth visit be used?

Medical information from your child's medical chart will be used for reports and to evaluate the school-based telehealth program, but your child will not be identified with this information. The video session is not recorded but some elements such as pictures may be taken. These materials will be maintained as a confidential medical record.

Is there any other information I should know?

You and your child have the right to ask the healthcare provider to discontinue the conference at any time. In addition, some parts of the exam may be conducted by the school nurse, or medical assistant, under the guidance of the healthcare provider who is evaluating the child.
